WARRANTY UNIT LABOR ALLOWANCE (Only Applicable for the First Year, then no labor allowance is covered)

A labor allowance may be issued upon request at RevMax's discretion. A labor allowance may only be issued in the warranty period per the allowed warranty. RevMax may supply the Purchaser with a replacement, remanufactured transmission or repair the defective unit at its sole discretion. The Purchaser must receive a claim reference number for the transmission. RevMax must have been contacted prior to the removal of the transmission that is allegedly defective. Upon receiving the allegedly defective transmission, RevMax will thoroughly inspect, analyze and determine the reason for failure. Valid reasons for an allowance to be issued include remanufacturing error, part failure, and torque converter failure. Installer, vehicle, wrong application or other (no problem found) claims will not receive labor allowance. In addition, RevMax reserves the right to bill the purchaser for any installation damage, abuse and damage due to improper cooling system flushing. Labor allowance credits will be given pursuant to the following schedule:

WARRANTY CLAIM PROCEDURE

In the event your RevMax transmission doesn't initially perform properly, the following procedure MUST be followed: This statement doesn't automatically assume there is a transmission problem, just a performance issue.

- Next call our Technical Hotline at 1-877-780-4334 and ask to speak with one of our technicians. He or she will walk you through several important checks. Most problems are easily handled during this process.
- If our technician is unable to resolve the problem, you may request that a Warranty Claim be initiated.
- Our technician will issue you a Claim Reference Number for tracking purposes. Issuing this Claim Reference Number does not in any way imply liability.
- Any unit that is returned to RevMax without a claim reference number by a customer intact and is the same as unit type may receive CORE CREDIT ONLY unless the unit is broken then they will receive NO CREDIT.
- Drain ALL transmission fluid from the unit, and install the torque converter retaining brackets and the electrical connector protective brackets provided with your remanufactured transmission.
- Following our Core Return Procedure, carefully repackage the transmission as it was originally shipped to you. If it was shipped to you in a plastic POD, carefully place the transmission in the POD and tighten the internal straps to hold the transmission in place. If it was shipped to you on a wooden pallet, place the transmission in the plastic bag, place the bagged transmission on the pallet and secure the transmission to the pallet.

Failure to follow this procedure may void your warranty.

HOW REVMAX HANDLES WARRANTY CLAIMS

Whenever a warranty situation arises, it is essential that the customer contact our Technical Service Department at 1-877-780-4334. The Technical representative will analyze the problem and determine the next steps. The customer will need to provide us with the original invoice number of the transmission in question along with the mileage of the vehicle and the original date of sale so that we may access the transmission history (i.e. test data/invoice & vehicle information). In many cases, our technical support personnel will be able to analyze the problem and recommend adjustments that will eliminate the need for a replacement transmission. If a warranty unit is required, the technical department will issue an RMA number for the unit. It is essential that an RMA number be obtained in order for any labor credit to be allowed or approved. It is customary for RevMax to receive the defective product back in advance prior to sending out a new transmission. This is done to protect all parties involved as we determine the failure and remedy the problem. When returning a defective transmission to RevMax, the RMA number, along with the serial number, must be provided on the packing slip for proper identification. In addition, the defective transmission should be fully assembled and include the torque converter.

Invoicing:

In the rare event that Revmax sends a replacement transmission, the replacement transmission will be invoiced at the standard price. Upon receiving and inspecting the defective transmission, a "warranty" credit will be issued for the value of the transmission therefore offsetting the charge. Credit will be issued provided the serial number returned is still under warranty (time and or miles) and it is deemed a defect in remanufacturing.

Customer Repair Labor Credits:

RevMax offers technical support whenever necessary. It is our goal to educate our customers by walking them through the test procedures and processes used for on-sight repair. In cases where the customer is requesting labor reimbursement, RevMax has instituted a Purchase Order system to track the credits. We have also defined the repairs for which we will issue labor credit and have setup a standard rate defining the amounts. In order to qualify for these credits, the customer must contact our technical support staff and obtained a P.O. number. When parts are found to be the reason for failure, the old parts must be tagged and returned to RevMax for inspection in order for credit to be issued.
